

EVRAZ North America coronavirus (COVID-19) information

As we face this rapidly-evolving public health crisis, protecting the health and safety of EVRAZ North America team members while we fulfill our critical manufacturing role remains our highest priority.

Public health officials are asking all of us to take certain steps to decrease the spread of the virus and protect our workplaces, schools, and homes. At EVRAZ North America, we have formed an internal Coronavirus Task Force and related functional teams to closely monitor developments, evaluate alternatives and coordinate our response at EVRAZ North America facilities.

Like so many other companies, we have taken a number of steps to reduce risk in our workplace and protect our team members.

We've curtailed business travel and prohibited non-essential visitors to our mills and offices. Cleaning practices and frequencies have been increased. Expanded remote work for teammates has been expanded wherever possible.

For team members in the mills, we are aligning with Health Canada and Centers for Disease Control and Prevention guidelines to protect our workplace through social distancing practices, staggered breaks and closely tracking information about travel or potential exposures as we adhere to directives coming from provincial, state and local governments.

In Illinois, Oregon and other jurisdictions, steel manufacturing and steel-related industries have been designated essential businesses. Steel mills and operating facilities across the United States and Canada, including EVRAZ North America locations, remain open to fulfill their critical manufacturing role.

Our operating facilities in Oregon, Colorado and Canada, including scrap yards, are open for our workers. We are also working directly with our customers and supply chain partners around North America to allow those customers to receive the steel products they need to maintain their essential operations.

We will continue to take the necessary steps in response to the coronavirus to protect our teammates while minimizing disruptions to our customers and supply chains.

A special thank you to our dedicated team members for their hard work and continued focus on working safely while serving our customers through this unprecedented situation.

Stay safe and stay well.

Skip Herald
President and CEO
EVRAZ North America

March 24, 2020